Biography

Filippo De Marco is an Assistant Professor of Finance at Università Bocconi since 2015. He is a CEPR (Centre for Economic Policy Research) Research Affiliate in Financial Economics.

His research interests lie primarily in the field of empirical banking and corporate finance. He studies how financial or regulatory shocks affect the real economy through bank balance sheets and their lending policies. He has published many articles over his topics of interest in many Journals, including Review of Financial Studies, Journal of Banking and Finance and Journal of Financial Economics, among others.

He got a Ph.D. in Economics from Boston College and a M.Sc. and B.A. in Economics from the University of Bologna and Padova, respectively.
