DIVERSITY IN ORGANIZATIONS: WHAT WE KNOW FROM RESEARCH AND WHAT EXECUTIVES CAN DO

6.00 PM - Lecture Hall Libreria Egea, viale Bligny 22 - Milano

Diversity has been an ever-present topic in many organizations for the last several decades. Notwithstanding the importance of diversity in today's workplace, researchers identified several problems that commonly arise from increasing organizational diversity (e.g., gender and sexual orientation), such as prejudice, discrimination and conflict. The bulk of the seminar will then explore solutions to these problems focusing on those that have been rigorously tested and shown to be effective by researchers.

- # What is diversity and why is it important?
- # What are the problems associated with diversity?
- # What can women and minorities do to overcome problems associated with diversity?
- # What are managerial and organizational solutions to problems associated with diversity?

Speaker:

EKATERINA NETCHAEVA, Assistant Professor of Management and Technology, Bocconi University
